

Literature and Science, Oxford

écrit par Épistémocritique

The aim is to publicise and promote the study of literature and science at the University of Oxford, in the city, and beyond. News, events, discussions, calls for papers, exhibitions, and job opportunities for students and academics working in literature and science.

If you are working in the field and would like to be listed in our ‘People’ section, or you would like to publicise a conference, seminar or other event, please contact the site administrators by writing to litsciox@gmail.com. Please also join our mailing list by entering your email address in the “Stay Updated Via Email” box to the right.